PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT — Sierra Madre Sidewalk Art III contest winners used their skills to test the concrete on the practice area set up by Sierra Madre city workers last Friday morning. Workmen were on hand to "erase" sections of the design that needed more work.

SIDEWALK ART FOREVER — Students who won the Sidewalk Art III contest took time to ponder their design winners while mothers and teachers looked on. Nails, pens and pencils, kitchen utensils and small carpentry tools were used to "carve" the designs on the sidewalk in front of the Old City Hall and Paper Palace last Friday morning.

Rudy Hartman loved, remembered by community

It was "Rudy Hartman Day" at Kiwanis last Tuesday and a number of local and area Kiwanians roasted and praised the 91-year-old Sierra Madrean for his service to the community.

Since, he says, he didn't want to upstage George Burns, he won't reveal his actual age, even though Sierra Madre well knows how old he is.

Hartman was born in Michigan and arrived with his family in Sierra Madre May 5, 1910. He graduated in 1912 from Pasadena College, and received his pharmaceutical license in 1917 from USC. He joined his father at the pharmacy on Baldwin Ave. and when his father retired in 1937, Rudy took over the business.

According to Mario Cano, president of the local Kiwanis Club, Hartman Pharmacy is probably the oldest business in Sierra Madre. Hartman sold it to Superior Drugs and it was renamed Best Buy Drugs three years ago.

The local celebrity has been president of nearly every organization in town. He was Citizen of the Year in 1971 and received his award for having graduated 50 years ago from USC.

But, Cano reported at the Kiwanis luncheon last Tuesday, "Rudy is most proud of the distinctive honor of being crowned Groundhog King in 1984. Crowned as Queen that same year was Gertrude Gerke." Gertrude provided Cano with much of the history surrounding Hartman.

Hartman had his own glider in the early 1900s and didn't let a few intervening years deter his love of flying when he went up in a hot air balloon on his 87th birthday.

He joined Kiwanis in 1937 and was a delegate to Toronto International two years ago.

Hartman was also instrumental in procuring the Masonic Lodge in which Kiwanians meet each week. Rudy was the first person raised to Master Mason in the building in 1925. Five years ago the Grand Lodge requested a history to be written of the order and Rudy was the one chosen for the task.

Hartman has been at the Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility since his stroke. He will move to the beach with his son, Bud, and daughter-in-law, Chris.

HARTMAN IS HONORED BY KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL — California Kiwanis Lt. Gov. Bob Ward and past Lt. Gov. Erich Moreno presented awards to Rudolph Hartman (center) at last week's Kiwanis Club meeting, termed "Rudy Hartman Day." Ward applauded Hartman for his long years of duty and Moreno lauded Hartman for truly living up to the Kiwanis motto, "We build." He said, "Rudy represents these ideals by his life. 'Remember, what you do speaks so loud I can't hear what you're saying' — that's what this truly wonderful man has done in improving this community."

Foundation hopes for $2 million more

The new Surgical Center at Methodist Hospital in Arcadia is a dream come true for staff and members of the board. But even more interested in the culmination of this dream is the Methodist Hospital Foundation, headed by John R. Fee.

Fee, who is newly-elected chairman of the foundation, has announced that gifts and pledges of the new center have reached $1.5 million.

The Surgical Center, dedicated in December and previewed by the community then, recently opened for public use. There are three operating rooms for one-day surgery as well as six in-patient suites with advanced equipment to meet a wide spectrum of patients needs. Cost of the center is $13 million.

The foundation still seeks at least $2 million in contributions to complete the financing even though there were earlier bond issues and hospital commitments.

The W. M. Keck Foundation of Los Angeles held the key to the campaign with a challenge grant of $750,000. It was the largest gift ever received by the hospital.

The intent of the grant is to challenge the community to raise as much and more in voluntary gifts. With total gifts now at $1.5 million, the new foundation president hopes that further support will top $2 million.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

● Katie Grijalva was visiting her daughter, Armida, a week ago in Long Beach when she suffered a stroke. She is at Lakewood Doctors' Hospital. Think of her...

● We have had a couple of calls from people whose water was turned off while the new pipes were installed. When the water was turned on once again, it was "milky."

We asked our trusty plumbers what residents might do about the problem and we were told to tell you all that it is merely air, tiny bubbles, due to the water turnoffs and turnons.

It isn't the new pipe ...it isn't a change in our wonderful Sierra Madre water. It's only an excess of air that has been introduced in the water.

● Dr. Norman Johnson has a spectacular display of tulips in front of his home at 1665 Carriage House Rd., Pasadena. We hear he has planted 3000 bulbs so you can imagine the unbelievable shock of color.

● Perhaps we can blame the full moon. Whatever it is, Christopher Valencia has had his fill of "experiences."

As you know, he's been in the hospital again and again, having sophisticated heart treatments. This latest angioplasty at Glendale Adventist started a string of unbelievable events.

There was an unexplained flood at the business Saturday.

Then Carolyn went to pick him up to bring him home Monday morning, she forgot a new set of clothes so Christopher was forced to wear his hospital gown and wrist identification tag home.

He'd been home only an hour when he tripped over some construction going on in one part of the home and split his head.

In moments he and Carolyn were on their way to the emergency toom at Methodist Hospital to have the wound treated. And when he got there he still wore his Adventist gown and tag. At Methodist they just placed a second tag—this one form the Arcadia Hospital — on his wrist.

What's next? Who knows? It's been a full moon...

On the way home. Christopher said to Carolyn, "Why don't you just drive me straight to the dump?"

No way, Christopher. You don't get out of it that easily.

Living with Others

By Donald A. Cardogan, Ph.D.
Psychotherapist & Licensed Marriage & Family Therapist

If we add today's divorce rate to the current amount of separations and desertions, and combine this figure with the number of marriages that stay intact, but are unhappy, we might have as many as 75% of our marriages in trouble. Marriage and family counselors know that much of this unhappiness can be prevented if only couples would learn to use more effective interpersonal relationship techniques.

Of all the social skills we learn in life, our ability to communicate is probably the most important. And this is especially true for marriage. Communication here is its live blood supplying needed information about the relationship to its members as well as furnishing vital emotional nutrients. But message sending is also an art that, unfortunately, is not practiced competently by many individuals.

Complaints about poor communication are among the most frequent encountered by marriage and family therapists. Thus, one of the principal tasks for couples in therapy is to learn effective interpersonal discussion skills, a faculty that is particularly useful during marital disputes.

Fighting in marriage is common and often necessary for the resolution of problems. But not too frequently, inept verbal exchange patterns during heated moments are the cause of further discord. Family fights are important events, but little mistakes can result in big troubles. It is also true, however, that small improvements in disclosure proficiency can lead to large advances in marital enrichment.

Next time I will discuss the two major ingredients in effective communication.

Places to go and things to see . . .

For months I have watched a house being built. I pass it at least twice a day — going to and from work — sometimes more. The family is living in two trailers in the front yard.

My guess was that the house was a remodel. Soon it became clear that a bigger project was afoot. Practically the entire house came down and the frame for a much bigger place rose in its place. Each day was a new surprise. The second floor and interesting roofline one week. The windows the next. That it was interesting, was no surprise, since it is one of our local craftsman builders.

Sometimes I would see one or more of the children in the yard. There is a small redwood table at which they would be sitting and eating or reading. At night, the lights are on in both trailers.

During the holidays, I happened to gather some bits and pieces of information about this whole project. From what I gather, this is a big family — four or five children. Now the trailers seem even smaller to me and I wonder whether it will ever be fun to go on a trip in that trailer.

Well, last week the roof went on. And this week the siding is going on . . . even some gingerbread. It's getting close to the end.

I am wondering how many others have followed this project vicariously as I have. It would be fun to know what they have imagined and concluded about it all. And I wonder if the family has any idea how many of us have shared this adventure with them — people whose name we don't even know?

I am thinking about a housewarming gift. But what do you give someone who has built a house and lived in a trailer with five children for 10 months? . . . I mean besides respect and admiration.

Assemblyman questions validity of census

Is there really low-voter turnout in California's elections? Much has been said and written about that subject, and there are many proposals in the State Legislature which are designed as remedies.

The fact is, however, we actually do not know if the State of California is experiencing low-voter turnout, medium-voter turnout, or high-voter turnout.

The latest figures from a survey taken by the League of Women Voters, copy attached, concluded that registration in California is inflated on the average over 24 percent. Obviously, if this deadwood was deducted from the rolls, the percentage of eligible voters actually voting would be in the 70-80 percent bracket.

Perhaps efforts to increase voter participation should center on the registration drives rather than on election-day registration and some other quick-fixes which are now proposed in the Legislature.

Since postcard registration began in 1976, and positive purge was eliminated, the rolls have become increasingly more skewed. We need a positive purge to ascertain the true facts.

Prior to 1974, the system required each county registrar to contact registered individuals who did not vote in a general election. They, in turn, returned a postcard indicating their wish to remain on the voter rolls.

The current negative purge is ineffective and fraught with danger; the potential for voter fraud is vastly increased by maintaining inaccurate voter registration records.

The Secretary of State's Chief Deputy, Anthony Miller, has said to Sacramento reporters that "it's a very messy system, and that's why we want to return to the positive purge." As he pointed out, one problem is that the postal service does not consistently return to the registrar the post-election cards which are addressed to persons who have moved. Most are dropped in the mailboxes and subsequently discarded by the current residents. Thus, those people who no longer reside at that particular address, and possibly not even in the same county or state, are still on the rolls as registered voters at the vacated address.

I have introduced AB 171 to accomplish the positive purge. Last year, similar legislation was killed by the Democrat leadership in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The first policy hearing on AB 171 will take place on April 22 in the Assembly Elections, Reapportionment and Constitutional Amendments Committee. I thank you for your interest and look forward to hearing from you.

Jameson Development to be discussed at Planning Com. tonight

Included on the agenda for the Planning Commission meeting on Mar. 19, at 7:30, will be to consider the development of the Jameson Estate by Suburban Land Developers. This is the same company that applied for the development in 1984-85.

The developers are asking for variances to accomodate the number of homes they want to build.

I encourage any interested citizens to attend the meeting on March 19. They may speak before the commission at that time if they wish.

Tips, Tales & Tantalizers

Have you ever wondered or even marveled at those bright, colorful neon signs flashing on and off, making the darkness of the night a little bit brighter? Many people remember movies because of a significant scene with a bright neon sign flashing - taking the whole scene away from the actors.

Well, just in case you want to know, Neon is not just a trade name, but the name for a colorless, odorless, inert gas. In fact it was first discovered in 1898 by Sir William Ramsay and Morris W. Travers, both British chemists. Even as far back as that, physicists were experimenting with radiation by striking an arc between electrodes in a tube, an evacuated tube, containing only small amount of vapor.

However, it was George Claude, back in 1900 who filled a tube with neon gas and found that then high voltage was applied at each electrode at each end well an electrical glow occurred, causing the tube to turn deep red.

Well you might wonder why some neon lights are different colors. That is because in our 20th century physicists discovered that different vapors could be used to get a different color. That's why when you are in a department store, under fluorescent lights, trying on a new dress, oftentimes you will put the dress back because the lights, unknowing to you, give not only the dress but you a greenish cast. And to this very day, advertisers have discovered this fact, and the reason you are spending more money in a department store is because those fluorescent (greenish) lights are being replaced by a more natural light. (We have some in our office.)

They simulate natural sunlight. These neon lights do not flicker and they do have a calming effect. They are great for plants, people, nerves, and oh, yes, increased sales — believe it or not.

People peeved over parking plague

What happens now? Will we move rapidly to solve Sierra Madre's parking woes or will we put them "on the back burner" as other councils have done? Ed.

Finding a solution to Sierra Madre's parking problem is proving to be one of the thorniest and controversial items on the city council's constantly jam-packed agenda.

The city is applying for selection under the California "Main Street" program, designed to supply a cadre of experts to help small towns like ours solve numerous downtown problems, ranging from aesthetics and historic preservation to traffic flow and parking.

The application will be submitted in April and, if Sierra Madre is selected (estimated to be about a 50% chance), will take at least three years of study before action could be instigated.

Some want to wait, but most agree we can't wait three years, even if we should be selected for solution to our parking problem. The parking crunch is NOW. Customers are frustrated, businesses are desperate and, almost all concur, the problem just won't wait much longer.

Various studies indicate the major problems lie with the Montecito area, North Baldwin, Kersting Court and the north side of Sierra Madre Blvd., although some southside boulevard businesses vehemently attest that they, too, are being seriously impacted, despite the large Mariposa parking lot behind them.

Parking problems are also found as far west as Lima, where the Wistaria parking lot is often jam-full and all the parking on the boulevard taken.

The problem seems to be almost universal throughout the business district, except where businesses have provided large parking lots devoted solely to their clients.

Several years ago, the mayor's parking committee recommended purchase of the lot behind the Paper Palace. The city council, for various reasons, rejected the proposal. The property was purchased and a building, requiring more parking, was built on it. The council's action lost an additional parking lot.

A letter to the council, dated November 6, 1986, from former Parking Committee member Doug Delahooke, notes that the Auburn lot should be 2½ times its current size just to accommodate current and near-future employees of the contiguous businesses, much less customers.

At least one current council member, Clem Bartolai, agrees with his former committee that purchase of additional property will provide the only long-range solution, while Mayor Pro Tem Roy Buchan feels double-decker parking may prove to be the solution.

Both would be very expensive and others feel a cost of $3000 or more per parking space would be unacceptable to the taxpayers.

Frank Goss, chairman of the defunct Parking Committee, acknowledges that the tenants of the Old City Hall, of whom he is one, have helped create more problems.

However, he notes that the 30 Sierra Madreans he employs and 30 out-of-towners spend a good deal of money in town, including 60 lunches a day, as well as other shopping.

He would not serve again on any city committee — only a commission, with full power to act and a budget to implement action.

The most dangerous spot in town, he feels, is at the drug store where many elderly and infirm patrons must park to secure medication. "It is not just an inconvenience — it is a threat to life and limb." He advocates a 20-minute parking space next to the handicapped ramp.

He is still upset over the loss of additional parking behind the Paper Palace. "The city sold its future for a permit. This will affect our children and grandchildren. This was one of those times when the city should have used eminent domain."

Goss noted that he had requested relocation of the bus zone in front of the Old City Hall two years ago. It has finally been relocated, but the red zone remains. "We could have had three more parking spaces for about $3.30 worth of paint each. Over a two-year period, those three spaces would have brought $18,720 in retail sales and $1200 in sales taxes."

He sees many opportunities to gain additional spaces here and there, but feels that the city will have to purchase more property in order to effect a long-term solution.

Among merchants on the south side of Sierra Madre Blvd., Bill Sullivan of the Bottle Shop said southside merchants were also seriously affected. One of his pet peeves is the number of bus stops which he feels is excessive. "We could get a tremendous increase in parking spaces if we just eliminated half the bus stops."

Currently, there are no less than five bus zones in the immediate vicinity of Sierra Madre Blvd. The amount of red zone allotted to these stops would accommodate 15 parking spaces. If Goss is correct in his estimate of revenue generated per parking space, the loss to Sierra Madre merchants is $46,800 per year and $3042 in sales tax to the city.

A number of citizens and merchants feel the bus ridership can't begin to equate with the parking loss and feel the council should confront the RTD with a request for reduction of their allotted space — up to 50%.

Fire Marshal Bill Kramer said, "I would have no objection to relocating the fire hydrant on the south side of Kersting Court in order to gain some much-needed parking in that area."

City administrator Jim McRea noted that the idea of a transportation shuttle service — a "Wistaria Wagon" — which has been put on a back burner, could still be revived as a possible aid in solving the problem.

Various suggestions, plans and ideas have been promulgated. It is hoped that readers of this series will encourage the council, the chamber, merchants and landowners — for the solution can only come from a cooperative effort — to act NOW.

Many feel we've done more than enough studying and agree with Councilman Clem Bartolai, "We could study this thing to death." The consensus would seem to be on the side of the citizen who commented, "We'll be dead in another year."

The money is available to the city. The magic ingredient, as Delhooke noted, is leadership.

We can't let that happen to our beloved town!

— J.M.

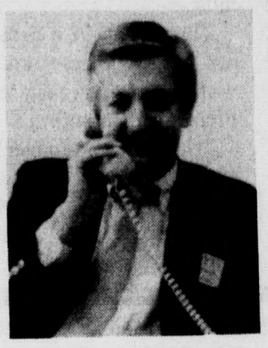
Waltrip wins contest with slogan for 'service'

Drawing up the new Arcadia retailers' slogan, "In business to serve — Shop Arcadia," was not difficult for John Waltrip since that's been his philosophy for a long time.

The contest was sponsored by Arcadia Chamber of Commerce recently and Waltrip, of John Waltrip Music Centers, came in first.



John Waltrip

He was born and raised in Placerville and is a second generation Californian. He learned to pick out Sunday School songs on his grandmother's piano and actually did not have any formal music education until college when he discovered that he had relative pitch. He was able to read music as well as play be ear by then.

He and his wife, Flo, moved to Arcadia in 1966 immediately after their marriage.

During those years Waltrip has remained active in the community and is just retiring as president of West Arcadia Business and Professional Association. He is on the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce board, also.

His favorite music? Gospel and ragtime. He prefers improvization of all types of music to straight classical music.

He believes his strongest trait is creativity and he has used that talent in many of the promotions for his business.

This Saturday, Mar. 21, is just another result of this trait with the auction that begins at 1 p.m. at the center at 1271 S. Baldwin Ave. in Arcadia. He has hired a professional auctioneer, Mike Gatonguay, from Palmdale, and at least 300 items are up for auction.

In addition to the live auction, there will be a "silent auction" offered for those who wish to offer written bids on various types of equipment and instruments. The highest of the silent bids will be announced at 4 p.m. that day.

Last Christmas Waltrip sent a group of high school vocalists whom he called the Troubadors to various retirement centers and to other organizations to sing traditional Christmas music.

He employs 37 full- and part-time people who also teach 900 students in the music school. He says he believes he has the largest independent music school in this part of the country.

Music is "a language that communicates emotions — all types of love, creativity. It is a challenge that has many rewards. In the music business you have to love it to stay," he grins.

The Waltrips have two children: Steven who is attending Wheaton College in Illinois and seems to be heading toward a medical career; and Sandi, who was chosen a Tournament of Roses Princess this year. She was a princess with Arcadia Tournament last year. Sandi is into singing and dancing as part of her music training and Steven is in the traveling chorale with Wheaton College.

"Realistically, Arcadia tends to push service as a specialty. With my slogan I wanted the community to know where our hearts is. If you recognize the best service possible, the profits are there," Waltrip says.

NEW RESTAURANT, NEW EMPLOYEE — Looking over the Caffe Firenze menu are restaurant owner Gloria Schuster and new employee Penny Grund.

Grund offers help in the decoration of Caffe Firenze

Though Gloria Schuster opened her gourmet Italian restaurant Caffe Firenze in one of Pasadena's historical buildings at 175 E. Holly several months ago, she is changing the decor and menu to make them "more interesting."

Assisting in these changes is Arcadian Penny Grund. As a customer, she enjoyed the food product and discussed changes with the management, which, liking her ideas, hired her to work primarily with public relations.

Though trained to be a school teacher, Grund is not unfamiliar with the restaurant business, since she and her Pasadena dentist husband are shareholders of The Chronicle in Santa Monica.

Grund majored in education at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and for six years taught primary grades in an East Los Angeles school. She moved to Arcadia when husband Lee graduated from dental school in 1964.

Grund has been president of the San Marino Area Chapter of National Charity League, is a sustaining member of the Assistance League of Arcadia, member of the Delta Gamma Alumnae of Pasadena and of Trojan Guild.

Italian-born Schuster worked as a hotel restaurant manager for 18 years in Texas and with her daughter owned a restaurant in Laguna Hills, but wanted to find a location closer to her current Burbank home. Because of the rejuvenation of Old Town Pasadena and because of the proximity to city hall and the civic center, Schuster was intrigued with the Holly Avenue site which most recently had housed an automobile repair garage.

She has transformed the over-50-year-old building into a "Sophisticated, not so noisy," italian restaurant that includes a more intimate, gourmet room featuring specials as well as the regular menu.

The restaurant offers a full bar service and valet parking is available during dinner hours. For hours of operation and reservations call 440-1421.

Palfrey — new entrepreneur

Marilyn Palfrey began working out of her garage, taking her creative Christmas decorations "to the bowling alley where I sold them to my buddies," she recalls. Now she has progressed to the opening of her new, permanent, year-round location in the Pavilions shopping center at 815 West Naomi, Arcadia.

After her projects outgrew the garage, for several years prior to the holiday season, Palfrey opened the Christmas Shoppe at various locations in the area. Then seven years ago she opened the first year-round shop on Huntington Drive in Arcadia, and for this past Christmas season she operated out of four stores.

Because the new shop is open all year and features decorating and gift items suitable for year-round occasions, Palfrey felt it was necessary to change the image and is changing her business' name to All Seasons, Home of the Christmas Shoppe.

In her new location, Palfrey offers a wide range of services including silk flowers and plants, pictures and prints, antiques and collectibles as well as decorative accessories and decorating service for home or office.

A showing of the entire collection of the David Winter cottages was highlighted during her open house celebration recently. Also featured was a collection of the family homes sculptured by Sierra Madre artist John Hopkins.

Palfrey is assisted in her business endeavor by husbane, Ron, whom she has known since she moved to Arcadia in the sixth grade. They attended Holly Avenue Elementary, First Avenue Junior High and Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte High Schools.

She attended the University of Southern California, then went to work for United Airlines, helping put her husband through the University of California at Los Angeles. An economics major, he recently gave up his career in graphic arts to help with the financial planning of the Christmas Shoppe.

LABELS DON'T TELL ALL

Have you ever wondered exactly how to clean a garment even after reading its attached care label? Many times consumers are afraid to put suits, quilts, woolblend sweaters, or knits into their washer, even though the label indicates the item is washable.

Care labels do not tell you all the ways to clean a garment. When the Federal Trade Commission made the requirement for labelling in 1972, they said that anything "Washable," should be understood to also mean "Drycleanable."

So all those items that you hesitate to throw into the strong mechanical agitation of your washer, you can have drycleaned.

Drycleaning means expert spot removal, carefully controlled agitation in cleaning solvent, and pressing or finishing one equipment you can't duplicate at home.

On Stage

By Mary Cogswell Baum

In the late 1940s Broadway was in the heyday of well-written comedy, plays with lots of lightweight laughter, and just enough reality and significance to keep them from floating off the stage, perfect for the tired business man. Such a play is Moss Hart's "Light Up the Sky," in which that consummate man of the theater examines his colleagues with affectionate cynicism. In current revival at the Ahmanson, a distinguished cast keeps his flamboyant characters from becoming complete cartoons.

The plot involves a young author who is bewildered by his introduction into a world which talks art and thinks money with equal sincerity.

Peter (Columbo) Falk plays the practical producer who keeps volatile director Fritz Weaver on a semi-even keel, while his skating-star wife, Deborah Rush, perfects her gin rummy. Nancy Marchand (late of Lou Grant) is in top form as the elegant but earthy mother of an emotional leading lady, Carrie Nye. Barry Nelson play Hart in essence, a successful writer who has been through it all and appreciates the highs and lows of the theatrical world. Ellis Rabb directs.

The more you know of plays, the more you will enjoy the witty commentary, but this is a great production for that aunt from Iowa: famous actors, a beautiful set and elegant costumes, sense and nonsense, even a gentle moral about tolerance.

"Light Up — " runs through Apr. 25, Tuesday through Saturday evenings at 8:30, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2. For ticket information call (213) 410-1062.

For the seasonally Irish, try Theater Americana's original play, "Killimundoonery" by Arthur McLean, a pleasant tale of complicated skullduggery among the landed Irish in 1855. The set is attractive, the actors accomplished, the dialects convincing, and if the story is told at rather unnecessary length, the Irish do tend to rattle on.

Steve Gaghagen steals the show as both a dying old masn who wants to run his son's life and as a tricky rogue, Bruce McLaughlin is the son, Elise Snyder a spirited colleen, and Eric Haugen, Sue Norton and Patricia Tennyson - Bell an amusing set of incidental characters. Darryl Antrim directs. "Killimundoonery" runs Friday and Saturday at 8 through Mar. 28, at Farnsworth Park at the top of Lake Avenue in Altadena.

UHRA breakfast set for May 9

Upper Hastings annual Pancake Breakfast will be held Saturday, May 9, at the Sierra Madre Shopping Center, on the corner of Sierra Madre Boulevard and Michillinda. Jerry Hardman is the UHRA chairman of the event. Proceeds from the breakfast help fund the Upper Hastings Scholarship Fund. The breakfast will be held from 8 to 11 a.m.

Cyndie Rapoza-Riegel is new board president

Cyndie Rapoza-Riegel

Cyndie Rapoza-Riegel organized a full-time licensed child care facililty when her children began to arrive. She felt that she could give her two small children better advantages in growing up by keeping them in her home rather than on the outside. She is zealous in teaching the responsibilities of citizenship.

Cyndie was born in Honolulu, Hawaii, graduated from Kailua High School in 1971 on Oahu. She and her family are long-time residents of Hawaii. Her ancestors came over to Hawaii from Portugal and Spain to work in the pineapple fields. In those early days, three years of working earned them a parcel of land for farming. Cyndie is one of those rare Hawaiians who's not a surfer.

After high school she came to California and graduated from LaVerne College, Pomona, with the B.A. degree in English. On her first school day at LaVerne she met Rich who after a year's wait became her husband. Proud of her name, Rapoza, Cyndie at marriage added Rich's last name with a hyphen and became Mrs. Rich Rapoza-Riegel. Rich is now a commercial real estate broker.

Cyndie has been licensed by the State of California for the last five years as a family day care provider. Her goal is offering the kind of service and care you would want for your children. Her toy bedecked home is open 12 months out of the year, is usually filled with children from ages two to seven. She's licensed to take care of six in a 12-month period.

Cyndie and her family have lived in the Upper Hastings Ranch for eight years, been a member of the UHRA Board for four years, and has been secretary for the last year. She is a firm believer in the Neighborhood Watch program designed by the Pasadena Police Department to safeguard property and homes. She has been chairman of the UHRA Pancake Breakfast and co-chairman of Christmas light-up. She is 1987 UHRA president.

Cyndie is president of WATCH, Women Attentive to Children's Happiness, a family day care support group that promotes day care experiences to children. She has also served as a board member of Hastings Ranch Nursery School for two years and chairman of the Pasadena Guild of Rosemary Cottage.

Her future plans include technical writing for commercial real estate businesses where she can use her college English major. Cyndie is a bubbly, charming lady who wields the UHRA presidential gavel with firmness, tact, and diplomacy. The board meets monthly on the second Tuesday evening in a board members' home. Ranch residents who'd like to attend a board meeting should call Cyndie, 351-0915.

A call to Cyndie is a rare treat as her answering machine projects the excitement and noise of playing children before her voice asks you to leave a message.

Huntington deteriorating

Upper Hastings Ranch residents were briefed at the UHRA board meeting last week on the deteriorated condition of the Huntington Hotel by Nat Read, a former Ranch resident and former board member.

Nat has invited members and friends of the Upper Hastings Ranch Association to a special presentation on some plans to preserve and reopen the hotel. The presentation will be Tuesday evening, Apr. 21, at 7 p.m. at the Huntington Cottage of the hotel. Nat said refreshments will be served.

The presentation will provide information on the reopening plan which will be the subject of a special Pasadena election on May 19. Nat says that the briefing for Upper Hastings Ranch residents is important because it will help them to understand better the renovation project.

Garland to speak at PCC, Mar. 19

Lillian Garland, who recently won a landmark U.S. Supreme Court decision involving a pregnancy discrimination action, will serve as one of the panelists Mar. 19 at a workshop titled "Important Legal Issues Affecting Women," 10:30 in Harbeson Hall at Pasadena City College.

The suit was filed under a California State law which states that a woman is entitled to disability leave, with a job guarantee, when related to pregnancy. Garland, whose position was terminated while on a pregnancy leave from a California savings and loan, won on two separate counts.

The workshop is free and open to the public, and time will be available for questions and answers. For further information, contact Beth Kaiama at (818) 578-7251.

Culture shock

A monthly Culture night around your house can be a good way to encourage children to enjoy some of the finer things in life. Shut off the TV. Play records of classical music. Read poems aloud. Look through books of great art. Discuss what these things mean to you over hot cups of refreshing tea and cookies.

Moorhead praises conservation legislation

Congressman Carlos J. Moorhead, R-22, said recently the "most important energy conservation legislation in 10 years" has been approved by the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

Moorhead, the ranking Republican on the Subcommittee on Energy and Power, the subcommittee of jurisdiction, has spearheaded the effort to pass legislation that will create national standards for air conditioning and heating systems and major home appliances.

The legislation, which has a broad base of support, passed the Senate last week. Similar legislation passed in the 99th Congress but was the victim of a pocket veto by the President.

The current bill has the President's support due to an amendment offered by Moorhead. The amendment reduces to an acceptable level the oversight requirements of the Department of Energy.

"The passage of this legislation is in everyone's best interest, especially the consumers. According to one estimate, the legislation will save consumers $28 billion in energy costs up to the year 2000," said Moorhead.

Moorhead said the legislation should be approved by the full House this week.

Kathy Linger joins Delahooke

Kathy Linger is the second realtor in a month to join Doug Delahooke and Associates in Sierra Madre. Before joining the local firm she was with Century 21 in Arcadia.

Linger, a California native who was born and raised in Pasadena, graduated from Arroyo High School in El Monte and attended Santa Rosa Junior College.

She and her husband, Phil, owned their own business, an Aamco Transmission Co., in Concord. Now that they have moved back to southern California, Phil is in El Monte in cement construction.

They have two children, Meghan, 5, and Michael, 3.

Kathy says that when Michael enters school she plans to attend Cal State L.A. part-time.

She attended Century 21 real estate school.

How does she feel about being with the Sierra Madre firm? "I like it."

Welcome her to the community.

New moving services finance

Moving families and individuals can now finance virtually all moving charges and pay for them in monthly payments, using a new revolving credit plan offered by North American Van Lines.

Called the North American Payment Plan (NAPP), the new financing service is available on all individually paid interstate household goods moves.

Moving services that can be financed through NAPP include: the basic transportation charge; packing and packing materials; third party services; cargo protection; automobile transportation; and storage-in-transit at origin.

Interstate Commerce Commission rules require that payment for a household goods shipment must be made before it can be unloaded at the customer's destination residence. Until recently, the shipper had to have cash, or a certified or bank check, on hand at delivery.

In recent years, since deregulation of the moving industry, several major van lines have arranged to accept certain major credit cards for payment. However, either the card limit or the available balance for most individuals is insufficient to cover an interstate move with the desired services.

NAPP is available through participating North American agents. There are more than 830 North American agents in the U.S.

When the North American agent representative makes a home survey and presents an Estimated Cost of Services, he/she can also take a brief credit application. The application is submitted by phone, and a response is received within two hours.

No down payment is required for North American financing, though down payments are accepted if the customer wishes. There is no penalty for prepayment.

Successful applicants will receive North American payment plan identification cards, which will be applicable for future use, depending on remaining available credit and subject to authorization.

Sierra Madre homeowners

Conference set Mar. 21 - 23

A two-day long exposition followed by a day of intensive workshops for existing and prospective owners and operators of franchising businesses will be held in Los Angeles Mar. 21 — 23 under the joint sponsorship of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) and the International Franchising Association (IFA). The meetings, exposition and workshops will be held at the Bonaventure Hotel in downtown Los Angeles.

"Government statistics show that there are approximately 500,000 franchise-owned small business in the country today, and that these firms have annual sales of $520 billion," M. Hawley Smith, SBA's Los Angeles District Director, said as he announced the meeting and expo.

The first two days of the meeting, Mar. 21 and 22, will feature exhibits and special programs by participating members of the IFA, and on Monday, Mar. 23, a day-long series of special workshops and programs designed to assist existing franchise owners and prospective owners and managers will be held.

Also scheduled the last day will be the availability of experts to answer question on a one-on-one basis.

Information on registration for the conference may be obtained by calling either (213) 894-4894 or 1-800-368-5855.

61.1 percent have paid dues

UHRA Treasurer Jamil Nuaimi reported at the Upper Hastings Ranch board meeting last week that 659 Ranch homeowners have paid their dues for 1987 in the Association. This represents 61.1 percent of the homes in the 44-block Upper Hastings Ranch.

Twenty block captains have qualified to display the 100 percent membership plaque, he said. This is a 100 percent increase over last year.

Block captains will continue to visit Ranch residents for membership dues. The dues help finance the UHRA Scholarship fund and cover expenses for such events as Spring Beautification, and Christmas Light-Up.

Bethany

Rev. Doug Heck, most recently a pastor in Pryor, Ok., and now a student at Master's Seminary which is connected with Grace Community Church in Panorama City, Rev. John McArthur being the pastor. A dynamic, young, expositional preacher, Rev. Heck will speak on "A Morning Prayer of a Godly Man In Distress," from Psalm 3. This Worship/Celebration service on Mar. 22 is at 10:30 a.m.

Church School for all ages from nursery through adults will be held at the 9 a.m. hour.

The evening fellowship hour at 6:30 p.m. will again hear Rev. Doug Heck speaking on "An Evening Prayer of a Godley Man In Distress," from Psalm 4. The Agape Orchestra, a 35-piece musical group will also present a mini-concert at this service. A program for children through second grade called "Happy Faces" is planned during the service also.

Kardia Women's Ministry on Wednesday mornings and Church Bible Studies on Wednesday evenings will begin on April 1 with the theme "God's Pattern for Personal Relationships."

Awana boys and girls club for preschool through 6th grade continues weekly at 6:45 p.m. on Wednesdays. XLR8 for Senior High Youth meets Wednesdays as well.

Bethany Church is located at 93 N. Baldwin Ave. in Sierra Madre. Call Reverend Stan Reed, Associate Pastor for inquiries or information at 355-1403.

Congregational

On Sunday, Mar. 22, at all three morning services, 8:15, 9:45 and 11:15 a.m., in the Sanctuary, Pastor Richard J. Anderson will be speaking on the topic — "Seeming Foolishness," using I Cortinthians 4:8-13, as his scriptural reference.

The Corinthian Christians thought they were children of God, that they should live like kings in every sense of the word. Such reasoning can be a trap, not only in the first century but also today. God may or may not cause you to be wealthy in this life. The apostles of the early church, and Paul in particular, were not living exactly like kings. We must always remember that what seems logical to us may not be God's will at all. The mark of spiritual maturity is love for God and for others when things don't go exactly as we would have planned them. Temporal values seem wise from a temporal point of view, and eternal values may seem foolish, but it is only true wisdom.

At the 6 p.m. evening service in the Sanctaury, Pastor Anderson's sermon will be "Saul Assumes Priestly Duties." I Samuel chapter 13 will be his Biblical reference.

Following the evening service there will be a reception for new members.

Lutheran -W.E.L.S.-

The sermon theme for next Sunday at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in Sierra Madre is: "Great Doubt." Sunday School and Adult Bible Study will follow. Mid-week Lenten service on Wednesday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. will have as its theme: "Jesus On Trial." We invite you to attend.

We Lutherans believe that Scripture is a unified whole, true and without error in everything it says, for our Savior said: "The Scripture cannot be broken" (John 10:35). We believe that it, therefore, is the infallible authority and guide for everything we believe and do. We believe that it is fully sufficient, clearly teaching us all we need to know for salvation, making us "wise for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus" (2 Tim. 3:15), equipping us for every good work (2 Tim. 3:17). No other revelations are to be expected. "This We Believe"

Methodist

"Old Words For New Experiences - Redemption" will be the sermon topic, this Sunday, at the Sierra Madre United Methodist Church. Rev. H. Elwood Wissmann, pastor, will be preaching at the 9:30 worship service. Nursery and child care are provided at this hour.

The Adult Study Group meets at 10:45 on Sunday morning. A special Lenten study on The Sermon on the Mount is being led by Rev. Wissmann.

The Priscilla Circle of the United Methodist Women meets this Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., at the Parsonage with Mary Jane Wissmann as hostess. Sara Circle meets on Friday, Mar. 27, at the home of Martha Owen. Church and Society Committee meets this Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at the church.

Prayer and Support Groups meet on Monday evenings, 7:30 at the Parsonage and Thursday afternoons, 2 p.m., in the Church Lounge. The Aldersgate Choir rehearses on Thursdays, 7:30 p.m. in the Choir Room.

Color sliders

The March competetion meeting of Arcadia Color Sliders camera club will be held Monday, Mar. 23, at the American Red Cross Building, 376 W. Huntington Drive, Arcadia, at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Magazines many

The United States has about 16,500 magazines, more than any other country.

Sierra Christian Fellowship

Neither saint nor sinner is particularly surprised when misfortune befalls some deserving rascal. But when bad things happen to good people, our theology can get shaken.

The Word of God teaches that eventually all situations produce good in the life of the committed believer. What we often fail to see, however, is the low and the when of it. Fair weather saints sometimes fade away during these episodes. All of us at some time or other have been tempted to just "throw in the towel" as well. In days of old, sialing vessels trying to gross great oceans invariablly encountered the dreaded "doldrums" . . . stretches of ocean in between wind corridors. Here they would have to row for days or even weeks across the still waters in the hopes of reaching the other side where the winds would "start up" again. These doldrums produced more mutinies than the vilest of captains.

Like those frustrated sailors of old, what we do when the helping winds of heaven seem to stop, is of utmost importance.

Opening League day set for Saturday

Opening day ceremonies for the Pasadena America Little League will be held at Hamilton Park at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Mar. 21, with play beginning for some 252 League children.

League president Pat DeCristo says there's still a few openings for players. "Call me at 578-1373," she urges.

Games will be played from the third week in March through mid-June. Ages start at six for T-ball and go through teens for girls and boys. Most all games will be played at Hamilton Park.

Approximately 20 percent of the children are from Hastings Ranch, according to Kathy Gregg, vice president for major girls teams, ages 9 to 12. President DeCristo has been manager for four years of girls' teams. Her daughter, Danielle, has graduated from play but her son, Matthew is now playing on a major team.

The league held last week a 2-day rummage sale at Field School. Proudly says Pat, "The rummage sale was quite successful. We won't have to run around selling candy this year to finance the teams."
